Beginners Guide to Teenage Wicca

Teenage is a time when many children realize that they are capable of making decisions on their own. Many children have solely depended on their parents for guidance from the day they were born. When children reach the ages of 11 and above, they may begin to question their belief systems.

As they begin to let go of their childhood concepts (mommy knows everything, dad is so strong, etc.) they realize that soon they will be adults capable of making decisions on their own. One of the major changes that happen in teens is their curiosity about this entity called God.

As parents frantically try to instill strict religious values in their children, they find that the children want to think on their own. Most often, the children are free thinkers and do not like to be controlled by their parents, teachers or any religious figures. There is a reason for this - each human being is given a brain; and each brain is different in its thinking. It is not reasonable to make our children clones of ourselves. They need to re-think life and have the freedom to decide what it is all about.

It is at this time that children get interested in new ways of life. Wicca is an ancient religion and yet, children are fascinated by it because it has none of the suffocating and controlling dogma associated with most religions. Wicca or witchcraft talks about freedom of our physical, emotional and spiritual self. Compared to Wicca, however, other religions have a huge number of no-nos and "sins" and scare tactics all in God's name.

In most countries, when a person becomes eighteen, they can choose their religion. The current trend for many teenagers is to follow Wicca. There are many reasons for this new interest in an ancient natural religion that no one created and yet everyone can naturally follow unless prevented by religious fanatics.

1. God is ONE. This premise allows all the humans on Earth to see themselves in each other. Wars will cease and all other religions which preach division (for some reason or another) will disappear from the face of the Earth. We need to see not only human beings as ONE, but every animal, bird, tree, stone and worm as exquisite, treasured and Godly. This is the only way our Earth will survive. Just as the lowly Earthworm or butterfly can cause a hurricane or earthquake, every living (animate or inanimate entity) is part and parcel of the ONE which is all around us.

2. We are all energy in some form or another. Just as the Sun gives us Fire energy, the other elements of the Earth have water energy, wind energy, etc which fuel the energy of everything that exists on this planet. We are all visible only because we vibrate at a certain frequency. There are many things that are invisible to the naked eye. Some people who are honed into this Universe can easily hear, see or sense things that most people cannot. Everyone can increase their awareness of these types of energy by meditation, practice and concentration.

3. The world is now focused on "getting stuff" "collections" and more shopping. One of the things that teenage witches need to focus on is to not expect stuff, but to GIVE to others. One of the major reasons for this behavior is the three-fold Law which stipulates that for each of our actions will result in three-fold returns. This means that if we are selfish, we will see others turn selfish towards us. If we are giving and forgiving, then we will find ourselves in a wonderful world where people are unselfish and loving.

4. This above rule also means that if we are helpful, we will get all the help we need from the Universe and if we donate money or volunteer to help the under privileged of our society, then we will never need to ask anyone for help. The Universe will shower blessings on us.

5. As you can see, in the wonderful religion of Wicca, there is nothing to worry about and no one to fear. Just be yourself, and help everyone around you and you will see that your life is wonderful in every way.

6. One way to help the Universe is to take care of the environment and use the minimum of resources. Remember that everything we see is part of our life and interact with each other. If we kill animals, we upset the balance of the eco-system which will eventually destroy our world.

7. If we keep our eyes open, we can stop the wars and the famine, help each other through natural and man-made disasters and help each other through tough times. One faith, one religion, one race. That should be our goal.
