Magick With Candles, Poppets, Mirrors, Powders, and Potions

Even though candles, poppets, mirrors, powders, and potions are technically “tools”, they are so important to Magick (especially candles), that I wanted to dedicate this entire witchcraft supplies section to them.

And... before I go into where you can find the witchcraft supplies you need, I'd like to talk about how to use the most common ones...

First, candles.

As one of the most used tools and supplies in almost every path of Witchcraft, the flame burning on candles releases Magick energy that bring about your spells desired outcome.

Candles also increase the focus of your concentration, and the energy that you send out yourself – which increases the effects of your Magick.

But before you use candles in your spells and rituals – you must prepare or anoint your candles so they bring maximum effects to your spells.

This is something that most Witches pay little or no attention to. Many of them have no idea that preparing candles (following the 2 simple steps I am about to give you) will have an astonishing effect on any spells that are cast!

So get ready to fill your candles with your heartfelt energies to draw a much bigger amount of energy into your spells (and trust me, the increased results of your spells will speak for themselves).

Here is what you do:

Step 1:

Hold the candle first so that the base is pointing toward you, and the wick away from you. If you will be using the candle to draw something to you, then rub the oil on the candle from the mid-point of the candle, stroking the length toward you.

Step 2:

Then turn it so the wick is facing you, and repeat the same, stroking the oil again toward you from the candle's mid-point. If you will be using the candle to send out magick to someone or something else, or to rid yourself of a situation, then with the candle held in the same position as described above, stroke the oil from the base to mid-point going away from you, and then turn the candle around and do the same from wick to mid-point. Your candle is now anointed properly for use in your magick.

(In the Witchcraft Home Academy, I have included dozens of my Grandmothers ancient Candle Magick spells, along with DVD demonstrations of exactly how to cast the spells – and of course a video example showing you how to prepare your candles as in the above 2 steps - you'll also find out where to get the best wicca supplies)

Powders and Potions

I wanted to touch briefly on powders and potions in Magick. They are important supplies of witch craft that almost every practicing Witch uses. You really won't use them all that much, but there will come a time where you will use one or both of them.

Powders are a blend of herbs or other items that contain Magickal properties. The powder is used to enhance the results of certain spells, because you actually infuse the powder with your Magickal intent before using it. Usually the powder is used to sprinkle over objects or blow into the winds outside.

Potions, despite what movies would have you believe, are not usually made for drinking. They are usually used for "anointing" certain objects before your spell work, or rubbing on your body if the spell calls for it.

Potions are usually created by either steaming herbs in water for about 10 minutes, or by steeping then overnight by the light of the full moon.

Crystals/Stones, Herbs, Oils

All of these witchcraft supplies are used in a lot of spells and rituals, and it is important for you to understand more about them before using them.

Oils

Oils that you use for spells and bathing usually contain combinations of herbs – therefore the oils possess Magickal properties that are representative of all the herbs involved.

There are hundreds of spells laid out for you (and demonstrated for you on DVD) that make use of Crystals, Stones, Herbs, and Oils in my Witchcraft Home Academy In-A-Box.

Crystals/Stones

Each rock (whether it is a crystal or not) has a higher or lower density vibration. This makes certain rocks (crystals & stones) powerful collectors of Magick energy.

Whenever you are in a situation where you are about to buy stones or crystals, it is important to physically touch different ones before buying them. It helps to close your eyes and really “feel” the stone – concentrate on how the stone resonates with you, and select the ones that are special.

Here I list the most commonly used stones that will help you with your Magick work (along with their Magick properties):

Amber – changes negative energy into positive energy; protection

Herbs

Herbs also bring unique Magick energies to the table when doing spell work. Not only do we Witches use them for spells, but herbs are also becoming more popular to treat health ailments throughout the world.

Before ever ingesting herbs (for any reason), it is important to consult with a doctor or herbologist who can make sure that nothing you drink or eat will be harmful.

In your Magick you will usually ground herbs into fine powders, or stuff poppets with herbs that will release the energies you are looking for to bring about the best spell results.
